

This architectural floor plan illustrates the layout of the National Diet Building. The central feature is the large Diet Chamber (衆議院議事堂), which is a rectangular hall with a high ceiling and a large chandelier. To the left of the chamber is the House of Representatives (衆議院) section, including the Speaker's Office (議長室), various committee rooms (委員会), and administrative offices. To the right is the House of Councillors (参議院) section, including the Speaker's Office (議長室), various committee rooms (委員会), and administrative offices. The plan also shows the central corridor (中廊) and the main entrance (正門) at the bottom. The overall design is symmetrical and formal, reflecting the importance of the institution.

